

Enquiry Question
What's so important about an ancient civilisation?
What makes us civilised?

Society
 Society was seen as a functioning element to their civilisation's. Power was held by Rulers, Pharos and Democracy. Within Ancient Egypt and Ancient Greece roles within society could be divided into different classes of people.

Impact
 Each civilisation transformed how humans cultivated food, built dwellings, communicated and kept track of information and time. They have also introduced sanitation facilities and key ideas such as democracy.

Diversity
 All of the Ancient civilisations brought rich diversity within their religious beliefs and their rituals. Ancient Greece saw slaves and merchants from across Europe so experienced diversity through trade.

Significance
 Ancient civilisations offer critical lessons on values, universal virtues, morality, and ethics. They shed light on the cultures of honour, valour, wisdom, love, courage, and humanity that have guided human life over centuries, emphasising their importance in our lives even today.
